

Optimizing Your New Role

Diana Ashe, UNC Wilmington

Dorothe Bach, University of Virginia

Looking through the position descriptions, highlight words make you excited and words that give you pause.

- What do your choices tell you about what you prioritize and value?
- What are areas that make you feel blocked? Why?
- What is missing from the job ads? What skills do you bring that you wish were mentioned?

How would you map your current job requirements onto these dimensions?

How well are they aligned with your interests and strengths?

How do you nurture the parts that make you excited about the job without neglecting the parts that get you paid?

